University of Alberta

The University of Alberta (UofA) is one of Canada's premier teaching and research universities serving more than 35,000 students with some 8,000 faculty and staff.

We have a simple objective here at the UofA – to be indisputably recognized in teaching, research and community service, nationally and internationally, as one of Canada's finest universities and amongst a handful of the world's best.

And we are well on our way to achieving this goal.

We are the home of Canada's only National Institute for Nanotechnology (NINT), a $120 million investment by the Government of Canada, through the National Research Council, the province of Alberta and the University of Alberta. NINT will be a world-class centre for cutting-edge nanotechnology research that is expected to revolutionize everything from computing and communications to medicine, energy and manufacturing.

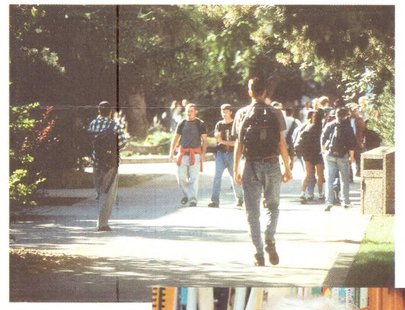
Students learn from nationally recognized professors

The UofA captured the world's attention when we announced that our researchers had successfully used a UofA developed treatment to free diabetes patients from insulin by transplanting donor-pancreatic cells into eight people. Since the transplants several years ago, none of the patients has needed insulin injections and they no longer need to monitor their diet. Known as the "Edmonton Protocol", cautious optimism exists that this is a major breakthrough in the treatment of the most severe form of diabetes.

Historic Assiniboia Hall

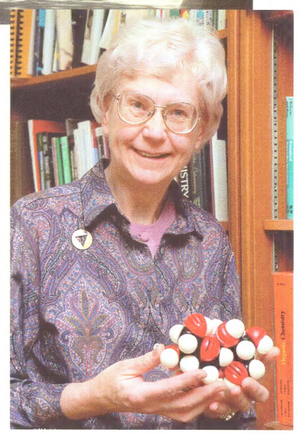
Our professors excel in the classroom as well as the laboratory. We continue to have the most 3M Teaching Fellows - Canada's only national award recognizing excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Our athletes dominate the national varsity sport scene and we lead the nation with the most Academic All-Canadians – students who successfully combine academic and athletic excellence.



Students stroll through the park-like campus

Dr. Margaret Ann Armour encourages young women to consider careers in the sciences and engineering through the creation and nurturing of a series of initiatives under an umbrella organization called WISEST – Women in Scholarship, Engineering, Science and Technology. She has recently been recognized with a Governor General's Award in Commemoration of the Person's Case and was named to Maclean's magazine 2003 Honour Roll as one of 10 outstanding Canadians.



Dr. Margaret Ann Armour is nationally recognized for encouraging young women to pursue education and careers in engineering and science.

Our researchers have the distinction of participating in 21 of the 22 Networks of Centres of Excellence in the country – centres for university/industry/government research, collaboration and partnerships. The U of A is also headquarters for two of these Network Centres –Protein Engineering and Sustainable Forest Management.

Enjoy your visit to our park-like campus – taste the foods of the world in our many eateries in SUB and HUB International Marketplace; browse in our renowned Fine Arts Gallery; take a contemplative stroll in the world's most northernly Japanese garden - our Kurimoto Japanese Garden; or utilize our world-class fitness facilities in the Universiade Pavilion or Van Vliet Centre.
